

CAPABILITY STATEMENT

Who we are

Heart to Harvest Catering Pty Ltd is a majority Indigenous and female-owned Brisbane catering business, registered with Supply Nation. From our commercial kitchen in Kangaroo Point, we deliver fresh, thoughtfully prepared food for government, institutional, corporate and event clients. Our approach brings together dependable operations, flexible menu planning and a commitment to meaningful Indigenous and local procurement.

Core Services

- Corporate & Office Catering: Meetings, boardroom lunches, workshops, training days, staff functions and everyday workplace catering, including breakfast, morning and afternoon tea, lunch packages and platters.
- Government & Institutional Catering: Scheduled, high-volume meal programs, including multi-day and seven-day catering services, with menu planning, meal preparation and coordinated delivery.
- Events, Conferences & Functions: Corporate events, conferences, delegate catering, networking functions, brand activations and community events, with tailored menus and staffed service where required.
- Indigenous-Inspired Catering: Contemporary menus incorporating native Australian ingredients and Indigenous flavours, with a focus on cultural integrity, seasonal produce and Indigenous supply chain participation.
- Customised & Dietary-Inclusive Catering: Bespoke menus accommodating allergies, intolerances, medical dietary needs, cultural preferences and religious requirements.

Proven government catering experience

AUSTRALIAN FEDERAL POLICE | Cadet training facility, Pinkenba | February 2025–present

Heart to Harvest delivers a recurring catering program for the Australian Federal Police, serving a variable daily cohort of approximately 40–160 cadets. Numbers fluctuate from week to week, requiring responsive planning, meal production and service coordination.

- Service offering: breakfast, morning tea, lunch, afternoon tea, dinner, dessert, snacks, and coffee and tea service.
- Service delivery across seven days, with meal schedules tailored to the training program and daily requirements.
- Dietary requirements and cultural food preferences accommodated as part of the program.

This engagement demonstrates sustained delivery of a multi-meal government catering program, with changing daily demand and varied service requirements.

People, facilities and logistics

Our operations are supported by a team of approximately 20 staff, a commercial production kitchen in Kangaroo Point, two delivery vehicles and access to an established network of couriers. Together, these resources support planned meal production, coordinated dispatch and responsive delivery arrangements.

Food safety and quality

Heart to Harvest operates an accredited food safety program. Our catering approach places emphasis on safe preparation and handling, consistent food quality and meeting agreed dietary and service specifications. Supporting compliance documentation is available as required for procurement assessments.

Service coverage

Heart to Harvest directly services Brisbane and the broader South East Queensland region, with delivery locations assessed against practical travel times of approximately two hours from our Kangaroo Point kitchen, food safety requirements and agreed service windows.

Scalable regional delivery model

For opportunities beyond our direct service area, Heart to Harvest can establish a coordinated network of qualified regional catering partners, prioritising Indigenous-owned businesses where appropriate. We would oversee partner selection, onboarding, service standards and client communication, with all regional arrangements confirmed before service commencement.

Social procurement and community impact

We seek opportunities to strengthen local and Indigenous supply chains. As our operations grow, we intend to explore partnerships with specialist organisations supporting women rebuilding their lives following domestic and family violence, with a focus on appropriate pathways to training and sustainable employment.
